Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 21 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Wet and windy Friday, easing overnight.

Today:
A wet and windy day. Rain, locally heavy, persisting across much of the region all day, with the east likely to see the best of any dry weather. Windy even inland, with coastal gales, possibly severe at first. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Tonight:
Rain slowly clearing overnight, though some areas may see it lasting till morning. Remaining rather cloudy for most. Wind slowly easing as well. Minimum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Saturday:
Much less windy than Friday, with plenty of sunny spells, especially later in the day. Scattered showers possible, which may be locally heavy. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Sunday a band of rain, locally heavy, moving through, with coastal showers following behind. Monday widespread showers, sometimes heavy. Tuesday dry and bright with scattered showers.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.